

The Lonely Road – Ian Luther

There's a street in my town
That everybody knows
And I'm walking down that lonely road

And every step that I take
Never knowing where it goes
And I'm walking down that lonely road

There were tears in my eyes
When I begged her not to leave
And I'm walking down that lonely road

But my heart isn't strong
And I wear it on my sleeve
And I'm walking down that lonely road

(chorus)
The lonely road
So long and winding
Leading me on with every bend
The lonely road
So unforgiving
But maybe love is waiting at the end

She left a note on my pillow
She don't love me anymore
And I'm walking down that lonely road
And then love can make you blind
And I've walked that road before
Still walking down that lonely road

(chorus)

There's a street in my town
That everybody knows
And I'm walking down that lonely road

I'm walking down that lonely road
I'm walking down that lonely road
I'm walking down that lonely road
